WELCOME TO INDIETOPIA!

From 2018 onward, a unique new accelerator for game development will launch in the Netherlands.

A maximum of ten young startups will be admitted and invited to come to the city of Groningen to build the (serious) games of their dreams. The program offers professional aid to get the companies started and ensure that the finished products are commercially viable.

Games sprouting from the Indietopia Accelerator are required to meet the standards described in Indietopia's proprietary code of conduct. Participants are required to sign a contract, providing their products with a seal of approval.

The code of conduct is a way to apply corporate social responsibility, as well as an added value in terms of the game as a whole. This way, entertainment games are seriously fun and serious games are playfully useful.
